How is my personal information protected?

We take cyber security and your privacy very seriously and have controls in place to protect your information and accounts. Along with our registry service providers (which by law house customer data), including Citi and Apex, we maintain strict security protocols and testing. This includes our online investor portal, which can only be accessed via two-factor authentication.

You will receive occasional emails from our registry service providers (including Citi and Apex), but if you are ever unsure or suspicious about an email or text relating to your Bennelong investments, please contact our Client Experience team immediately (details at the top of this page).

There are also several steps you can take to help safeguard your personal information against cyber threats. Update your devices and software promptly, be vigilant about clicking any hyperlinks, use strong passwords and (where possible) multi-factor authentication, and regularly back up your files.
